

Theo Baron has worked in the NHS, private sector and voluntary sector for the last 25 years. Theo is a registered nurse and midwife by background – she has gone on to specialise in safeguarding covering children, adults, mental health and maternity services. She is enthusiastic and very passionate about safeguarding vulnerable members of the society. Theo currently works as Associate Director for Safeguarding in the NHS. She has been involved with young homeless youth before and has been involved in fundraising programmes. An avid member of the United Methodist Church, Theo undertakes a lot of charity work with women and children.